The President

The Mansfield State Teachers' College is located in the foothills of the Alleghenies, where these mountains begin to level out toward the lower lands of the great lakes—one of the most picturesque parts of Pennsylvania. The college is the third oldest teacher training institution in Pennsylvania. It was originally founded in the late fifties as a Seminary, under the control of the Genesee Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church. At that time, the North Tier of Pennsylvania was only lightly settled; and the young men and women of this section had but little opportunity for educational advantages. It was during this period that an agitation arose for more technically trained teachers and, as a part of the state program, the trustees of the Seminary petitioned the Pennsylvania legislature to make the institution a State Normal School. This was done in December, 1862. For a period of almost sixty years, this Normal School continued to grow and to serve the cause of education and of teacher training over a large area. Today, a large percentage of the population in the North Tier counties of Pennsylvania has enjoyed the opportunities of an education at this institution. It was one of the first Normal Schools to seek to go on a Teachers' College basis; and was actually, in point of time, the first to be approved by the Pennsylvania State Council of Education to confer degrees. This occurred June 4, 1926. On May 21, 1927, the name of the institution was officially changed to State Teachers' College.

WILLIAM R. STRAUGHN.

The Dean of Instruction

Mansfield is concerned with the training of teachers, who, to be good teachers, must first be competent students, patriotic citizens, worthy men and women. Mastery of the ever-changing technique of teaching is vital; but, without wisdom and character, sound technique alone produces on pupils practical results comparable to the musical effect on an audience of a Beethoven Sonata, played by a competent, but crippled pianist on a decrepit instrument, badly out of tune. Only on the solid foundation of a well ordered life, mental, physical, emotional, moral, can a permanently sound and useful teaching technique be expected.

The little we have yet learned scientifically about the mind and its working agrees with all practical experience in stressing the importance of coordinated wholeness of personality. The best professional training is built on this fundamental insight. To be a preacher, an engineer, a physician or a teacher, one must know much more than theology, engineering, medicine or pedagogy and must be much more than one knows. Mediocre professional training always deals too much with what A. N. Whitehead has recently called "particularized ideas of low generality" and has lived from hand to mouth in a vain attempt to make teachers without first making men.

Mansfield is a professional school for training teachers. It knows many of its graduates will follow, in time, other lines of work than teaching, including largely home-making. It also knows that any branch of professional training, whatever its immediate practical aim, includes many branches and, even in professional courses, much material common to any education at the collegiate level. To impart teaching skill, without attention to other needed skills and qualities, is not our aim; but rather to train good men and women, sound scholars, useful and worthy citizens, vital personalities, who in addition to this and also largely because of this, are good teachers.

ARTHUR T. BELKNAP.

The Dean of Women

The Department of Student Welfare works with a conscious effort to instil qualities of cooperation, of consideration for others, of self reliance and of initiative into the daily life and habits of the students. Affiliation with the Student Council, membership in organizations, service on committees and regular habits of study and worship are concrete aids toward the building of such qualities which, combined with an adequate background of subject matter, should enable any student to take his or her place as a leader in his or her future community.

VICTORIA FREDERICK.

The Dean of Men

This office witnesses the ever-changing aspects of student life. The year has been especially rich and eventful in those traditions with which are associated the rarest and most cherished memories of college life.

Blessed is the student, who, while enjoying these gifts and privileges, has evolved a philosophy of fine living and spiritual completeness, which has enabled him to leave this college mentally, physically and spiritually equipped to meet the world. That student is worthy of his heritage.

HENRY W. OLSON.

The Director of Music

To the staff of the 1934 Carontawan and to its subscribers, I wish to extend a cordial greeting from the Music Education Department and to express my personal appreciation of a project well begun and finely carried out.

An undertaking such as this means much to the graduates of the college. It will mean more as the years pass.

Congratulations!

GRACE E. STEADMAN.

The Director of Home Economics

The Home Economics Department, like all other departments in the college, has its own entity and accordingly contributes to the sum total of school life and spirit that which is inherent in its individuality.

The primary purpose of this curriculum is to prepare teachers, who will go out into our public schools and train young people to become better able to assume their rightful share in the responsibilities and joys of their present and future homes. Therefore, our department aims to radiate the spirit of the home and home activities.

We hope we have achieved that at times for you students of the graduating class of 1934.

LU M. HARTMAN.

The Principal of the Junior High School

Since the establishment of the Junior High School twelve years ago, student teachers have enjoyed an excellent reputation for going about their teaching with splendid enthusiasm. To this reputation it is now becoming necessary to add a word of praise for greatly improved academic and social preparation—an improvement brought about largely by the increase in the length of the college course. No school deserves more than a well trained and enthusiastic faculty. This the Junior High School appears to be getting, both presently and prospectively.

MYRON E. WEBSTER.

The Principal of the Model School

The Supervisory Staff of the Model School is mainly interested in the service which this school renders over three hundred boys and girls. We are concerned that these children shall have a profitable and enjoyable school life. We are more interested in them as human beings than we are in their progress in what was once called "the three R's."

An endeavor is made to give music, art and handwork a significant emphasis and thus avoid a one-sided symbolic training. We believe that the future education of these children depends more upon the attitudes with which they leave us than it does upon any other factor.

The Student Councils

All students at Mansfield are members of the Student Cooperative Government Association, which elects each year the Women's Student Council, consisting of eleven members, and the Men's Student Council, composed of eight members. Each Council has the authority to discipline the members of its own Association; but the chief function of both councils is service. Together they act as a representative group in planning all student social activities, forming a connecting link between the administrative faculty and the student body, which facilitates the solution of mutual problems.

This year has been very successful, due, not only to the splendid cooperation of the student body, but also to the fine personnel of the Councils and their steadfast loyalty to Mansfield ideals.

Senior Greeting

The Class of 1934 greets you! For four years, we have enjoyed the educational opportunities, the recreational facilities and the personal contacts which Mansfield offers; we have accumulated ideas and ideals to adorn the future. The same four years have transformed a heterogeneous group of young adventurers into a progressive class of students, who, each year, distinguished themselves in scholastic and supplementary pursuits.

Now, on the eve of departure—the going-out into even more diverse places than those from which we came—we pause for a moment of reminiscence. We linger to review the things which we have accomplished during our stay and to wish success to the classes which, in their turn, will follow us. Then, with a renewed pledge of allegiance to our beloved Alma Mater, we turn about and face the world!

Who's that knocking on the wall (after ten o'clock)? A fair young maiden with blonde hair, interesting blue eyes and an uncontrollable desire to tease. But the girls next door always forgive her—who could refuse? She is naturally petite and has more dignity for 4 feet and 11 inches than we've ever observed before.

Junior Greeting

We have completed three years at Mansfield and our fourth and last year, with its inevitable necessities, lies before us. But before we question what the future may hold, let us review the past.

In the fall of 1931, we entered Mansfield as Freshmen. College was new to us, but we did our best to look perfectly at ease. Then, we were confronted with an uncomfortable situation; green ribbons and "dinks", together with "Full Instructions for Frosh", were thrust upon us. How we despised the upperclassmen! Little did we realize that they were to become our truest friends. However, this "hazing" period came to a close and we became accustomed to our surroundings. Campus activities were no longer looked upon as something beyond our grasp; we had proven ourselves worthy of the respect and companionship of our "superiors".

When we returned the following fall, there were friends to greet us—to make us feel that we were really a part of Mansfield. We, in turn,

 Seventh Row: Dildine, Bull, Marvin, Irwin, Reynolds, Cleveland.
 Sixth Row: Hill, Frank, De Mott, Rosen, Reem, Harris, Enck, Chaffee, Rngaber.
 Fifth Row: Tewksbury, Hamlin, Oliver, Van Dine, Roberts, Sheriff, Hewitt, Ruggles, Yurkewicz, Stevenson.
 Fourth Row: Tebo, Doughton, Collins, English, Myers, Thomas, Secor, Lunn.
 Third Row: Hildebrant, Angle, Bailey, Hymes, Haverley, Cleveland, Clark, Schover, Davis.
 Second Row: Rubendall, Titus, Simerson, Melson, Major, Lithgow.

passed this idea on to the Freshmen, whom we welcomed into our midst. During the Sophomore year, some members of our group turned to athletics; others were outstanding in musical, dramatic and literary circles. We ended our second year, conscious of definite progress toward our educational goal. We had created a background and had established a firm foundation for our educational edifice.

We are now Juniors, working together, maintaining high ideals and high standards. Our college career is drawing to a close; our educational building, in the process of construction during the past three years, is nearing completion. One year remains for us to produce the finished product.

Sophomores

Certified Sophomores

For some years, in Pennsylvania Teachers' Colleges, secondary certification, qualifying for teaching in junior and senior high school, has been granted only to degree graduates in Group IV. Certification in special departments, such as Music or Home Economics, likewise has been confined to degree graduates. By action of the State Council of Education, full elementary certification also is to be confined to degree graduates in the new four-year Kindergarten-Primary and Intermediate courses. By this recent decision, the Normal Certificate, formerly given to graduates in the old two-year Group I and Group II courses and which entitled them to teach in all the elementary grades, is no longer regularly issued. The only exceptions will be a very few students, who already have nearly completed the old two-year courses.

This raises in a new form the question, Who is a Senior? Briefly; a college Senior is a fourth year student, who will be entitled to receive a bachelor's degree at the next annual commencement, provided he passes the work of the year. Obviously, this does not include second year students in the new four-year Kindergarten-Primary and Elementary courses. They are Sophomores.

Most Sophomores in the new Groups I and II adjust their courses so that at the end of the second year they can secure the State Standard Limited Certificate. This, however, is a temporary certificate only and does not imply graduation; nor do those working for it thereby acquire Senior rank or standing. Only fourth year students in any course are now Seniors.

Sophomore Greeting

From the beginning, our class was different. We were the first Freshmen to profit by the modification of hazing; we were the first to enter Mansfield under the law which excludes persons not in the upper half of their high school class. Naturally, the attention of the faculty and upperclassmen was focused upon us. Much was expected from us; we trust that we have fulfilled that expectation.

Early in our first year, we displayed those scholastic abilities which had been attributed to us. At first, the upperclassmen doubted that a class scholastically inclined could produce athletes; but, in our two short years at Mansfield, we have been exceptionally well represented in athletics, as

 Fifth Row: LeGrand, Lewis, Hines, Chamberlain, VanAntwerp, Loveland, Ludgate, Loftus, Dickinson, Wallace, Anderson, Fagan, Edwards.
 Fourth Row: Jones, Hess, Leininger, Eaton, Farrell, Reum, Hess, Eckstrand, Moody, Staubitz, Chatlas, Churi, Scheele.
 Third Row: Ogden, Rockwell, Goery, Jones, Hewitt, Allen, Challenger, Krick, Parry, Mayer, Bryden, Cupp.
 Second Row: Waterhouse, Allan, Westlake, Strait, Wilcox, Russell, Hunt, Sama, Snyder, LaFrance, Mott, Merva.

well as in journalism, music and dramatics. Our social consciousness is unquestioned. In our Freshman year, we held a combined dance with the Sophomores; this year, we had our own dance. Both were highly successful.

We, as a class, have been considered exceptional; it is our intention to be even more exceptional before we are finished. We are determined to be a class which long will be remembered—one of the greater classes of Mansfield.

Freshman Greeting

In these days of economic stress, it is not surprising that the present Freshman Class is fewer in number than the class which preceded it, particularly in the Music and Home Economics Departments. This is not an apology, only a regret; we are confident that we shall be able to make up in quality, what we lack in quantity.

When we arrived on the campus, we found ourselves faced with the necessity for many adjustments. With the sympathetic assistance of upper classmen, we were able to acclimate ourselves. It was not long before we "periscoped" by calling a class meeting, by electing officers and by making preparations for a picnic, which successfully materialized. Soon many of us interested ourselves in the athletic, literary, dramatic and social affairs of the college. Then, in late January, came the Frosh Hop, one of the most enjoyable affairs of the year.

The Music Supervisors' Club and Chorus

The Music Supervisors' Club and Chorus is composed of all students of the music department and members of its faculty. The club serves as a forum where the newest "tricks of the trade" are presented and discussed weekly. It has proven a most valuable asset to the student and a source of inspiration to the graduate in the field. Close contact is maintained with other clubs of the State Federation.

This year the Mansfield group was host to the Federated Music Clubs of Pennsylvania. The conclave took place in Straughn Hall and was addressed by Mr. Claude Rosenberry, State Director of Music Education.

The Vested Choir

Grace E. Steadman, director of the Vested Choir, has succeeded in bringing it to a point of perfection seldom attained by an amateur group. Weekly rehearsals are held in Alumni Hall and formal programs attest the serious work accomplished.

The major work studied this year was the Mendelssohn oratorio, "Elijah". Soloists of national repute took part in its presentation, the principal role being sung by Mr. Charles E. Lutton.

The Symphony Orchestra

Symphonic literature is something few people have the opportunity to enjoy and appreciate. Mansfield is particularly fortunate in having a symphony considered by many to be the finest college orchestra in Pennsylvania. It has been built up through the years under the conductorship of Will George Butler, composer-violinist.

One of the outstanding benefits derived from an organization of such size and calibre is the opportunity afforded music students to study symphonic material under practical playing conditions. It serves not only as a training school in orchestral performance, but as an inspiration to the serious student of orchestral conducting and interpretation.

The year's repertoire included Beethoven's Fifth, Eroica and Pastoral Symphonies, together with selected compositions of Herbert, Foster and lesser composers.

Back Row: Merk, Myers, Johns, Wheeler, Bryden.
Fourth Row: Partchey, Hartman, McCullough, Lipp, Caswell, Ryder, Reem, Kresge, Hallock, Straughn, Alger, Spencer, Gilbert, Woodley, Sanial, Price, Gingrich, Brace.
Third Row: Dunlop, Shiesl, Chaffee, Rosen, Zeller, Knowlton, Coolidge, Dye, Clapper.
Second Row: Yurkewicz, Cupp, Chatlas, Coles, Seamans, Jackson.
Front Row: Monks, VanAntwerp, Enck, Corno, Morrison, Ransom.

The College Band

The College Band is an organization of which one can be justly proud. It familiarizes its members with the best in band literature. Under the leadership of John F. Myers, it has grown year by year in size and technique. It contributes much to the spirit of the football and basketball seasons.

Great stress has been laid this year on the development of small chamber music groups—a band movement of national scope. Prof. Myers has organized and drilled a brass quartette, a woodwind ensemble and several reed and mixed trios. These groups have appeared on various chapel programs. The band also sponsored a music festival in which schools of neighboring towns were invited to participate.

Home Economics

THE KINDERGARTEN

Home Economics

"Homemaking, to Know and to Teach."

Home Economics concerns the home and other institutions with similar problems. The department offers courses, both practical and theoretical, in the many branches of the field. Included are a study of food, clothing and shelter, in correlation with hygiene, economics and art, and a study of members of the family group in their relation to each other and to society.

THE JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL CAFETERIA

The objective of Home Economics is to prepare women for their two oldest professions, homemaking and teaching. The curriculum is planned with this objective in view and all activities contribute toward its realization.

Each student is afforded the opportunity to observe and to teach, under expert supervision, in the Junior High School and in the Senior High School. Here knowledge acquired in the classroom may be applied and contacts with children, classmates and instructors may be established. The experience also includes work in the Junior High School Cafeteria and in the Play School, which is operated in the Kindergarten Building two afternoons each week. Thus practical associations with pre-school, primary and intermediate children are advanced and abundant opportunities for the acquisition of definite professional techniques are provided.

A JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL CLOTHING CLASS

The Home Management House, located on the campus, offers another interesting situation. Here a small group of girls and a resident instructor live and work together as a "family". Such training furthers expert teaching, worthy home membership and efficient homemaking.

Other instructional advantages are pertinent lectures by outstanding personalities in the world of Home Economics and frequent field trips to nearby points of interest. This year five such excursions were scheduled. The Seniors visited the Play School in Elmira, N. Y., and vocational home economics schools in Troy, Towanda and New Albany. The Sophomores inspected the Arnot-Ogden Hospital in Elmira and the State Hospital in Blossburg. The Freshmen spent a day in Williamsport, visiting shops and schools.

THE HOME MANAGEMENT COTTAGE

The degree of Bachelor of Science in Home Economics was first conferred in 1927 upon two students. Since that time, ninety-two students have been granted the degree. It is interesting to note that twenty-one of these have married, four of whom are teaching, as well as homemaking.

This year the Mansfield State Teachers' College was approved and subsidized by the Federal Board for Vocational Education at Washington as a vocational Home Economics teacher training center, with its graduates automatically qualified to teach in the public schools of other states. This recognition places the institution on the nationally accredited list and gives it the same standing as is enjoyed by the University of Pennsylvania, the University of Pittsburgh and Pennsylvania State College.

Training Schools

The Junior High School

The student attending a teacher-training institution presumably intends to become a teacher. It is essential that he be given a complete training with the art of teaching as a goal. There is needed in this training an opportunity to observe teaching and actually to engage in it under expert guidance. The Junior High School provides this opportunity, at the same time serving as a model of Secondary organization. The establishment is housed in a comparatively new building, is well equipped and furnishes excellent advantages for those who do their practice teaching in this department. It is the source of many of the student's most meaningful experiences while training.

Manual training for both boys and girls is offered in the Junior High School, where a well-equipped shop, two units of which are pictured, is operated under the supervision of a skilled instructor. Above, a group of boys is working on individual projects in wood and metal; below, another group of boys is printing an issue of the school newspaper.

The Model School

During the school year, about one hundred twenty-five student teachers get their preliminary teaching experience within the walls of the Model School. The work is so arranged that each teacher deals with a variety of problems. The work is definitely and consciously oriented to enable them to deal successfully with a position as teacher in a one-room or consolidated rural school. The school is conceived of as part of the community in which it is located and the prospective teacher is shown the necessity of adapting his instruction and attitude to the environment in which he is placed. The Model School holds that the pupil is more important than the course of study or the machinery of the institution.

The building of illustrative miniatures is a useful teaching device in the lower grades and is one of the most interesting and worthwhile projects promoted by the Model School. Above, the discovery of America by Norsemen has been interpreted by a second grade class; below, a feudal castle has been constructed by a fourth grade group.

Football

The 1933 season will be remembered as one of the most interesting in Mansfield's football history. When the call for candidates went forth forty men responded. Coach Davis was pleased with the interest shown and gratified by the material at hand. Competition for Varsity berths was instrumental in shaping the team rapidly; soon it was tackling and blocking in mid-season style.

Letter-men from the previous year were the nucleus of the squad. Outstanding newcomers were Hyder, who looked good in the line, Kautz, who demonstrated running and passing ability, and Pugano, who showed that he could hit the line with disastrous results.

The Red and Black Varsity completed a schedule of seven games. Four of these were played on the home gridiron; three, in alien territory. Three times the Mountaineers were victorious; once they tied; three times they were defeated. But victories and defeats, as such, are forgotten when one recalls the excellent brand of football which Mansfield displayed in determining them. Let us review, briefly, the contests of the year.

Mansfield 44; Kutztown 0

Mansfield, September 30. After weeks of gruelling practice, Mansfield was given its first test against Kutztown. Having won a single point victory the previous year, it was expected that the visitors would be strong. They were strong, but the Red and Black gladiators played unbeatable football against them. At no time after the opening whistle was there any question as to the outcome of the engagement.

Mansfield scored soon after the quarter opened and did not cease scoring until it had attained a lead of nineteen points. The remaining quarters were successions of line plunges, passes and punts. Captain Bunnell displayed uncanny skill in snaring passes; Stevenson was good for two touchdowns; Kautz and Puganc showed lots of plunging ability; Helmer was conspicuous for his punting.

Cortland 13; Mansfield 0

Mansfield, October 7. Cortland and Mansfield entered the contest rather evenly matched. The game opened with the ball in Mansfield's possession. Unable to gain ground, the Mountaineers were forced to kick. In four successive plays, Cortland scored behind perfect interference. This aroused the Red and Black fighting spirit; the visitors were held scoreless for three quarters. Four times Mansfield's goal was severely threatened; four times the line held. Bunnell, Wilson, Hyder and Salisbury smashed plays consistently. Cortland's final score came near the end of the game. Mansfield's counter attack was halted by the final whistle.

Mansfield 0; Dickinson 0

Williamsport, October 14. The first battle on foreign soil was waged with Dickinson. Accompanied by the Drill Band and a large cheering section, Mansfield entered the enemy's territory with considerable gusto.

The Red and Blacks played a defensive game throughout the first half. Neither team gained much through the line, so that the exchange of punts was frequent. Late in the last quarter, Mansfield started what looked like a touchdown drive. Borden made a nice run-back of a punt. A beautiful pass, Kautz to Bunnell, netted a gain of twenty-five yards. Kautz broke through the line for seventeen yards, putting the ball on Dickinson's thirty-five yard line. The drive was halted by an intercepted pass.

Hyder's play on the defense scintillated, as did that of Wilson and Long. Howland, who played a nice game, suffered an injury and was lost for the balance of the season.

Mansfield 32; Bloomsburg 13

Mansfield, October 21. Parents' Day! Bloomsburg, Mansfield's traditional athletic rival! A crowd of more than two thousand persons!

Mansfield made its first touchdown early in the contest, when Borden carried the ball over Bloomsburg's goal line. Throughout the game Borden was inspired; his running attack netted two additional touchdowns. Helmer snagged a pass and ran over for a counter. Salisbury recovered a fumble over the goal line. Bunnell was on the receiving end of a pass over the goal line from Pugano.

Mansfield played unbeatable football that October afternoon.

Ithaca 19; Mansfield 7

Ithaca, N. Y., October 27. The second venture on alien ground proved less happy than the first.

Ithaca started an advance immediately after the kick-off. The pigskin traveled fifty yards to net its first marker. In the second quarter Wilson recovered a fumble in midfield. Borden made a first down around end. On the next play, the team used the spread formation. Pugano took the pass from center, backed until he found a target and threw a fifty yard pass which Stevenson, leaping high in the air, completed.

Ithaca scored during the second quarter and again during the last few seconds of play, despite emphatic opposition from Mansfield.

Stroudsburg 12; Mansfield 0

Stroudsburg, November 11. This game was the feature of Stroudsburg's Homecoming Day program. It proved to be the upset of the season. Although the odds were on Mansfield, the team failed to click and was defeated.

Stroudsburg began a drive early in the contest which netted an initial score, but failed to convert in the attempted try for point after touchdown. The second count came in the third quarter, after several long passes had been completed. Mansfield missed several opportunities to score.

Bunnell, in snaring passes, gained considerable yardage. Hyder, as the opponents' coach remarked, "was poison to Stroud during the whole game!" Keagle was adequate in his position.

Mansfield 13; Hartwick 0

Mansfield, November 18. The final combat of the season was waged with Mansfield's newest rival, Hartwick, on a field from which a blanket of snow had been removed.

Borden starred with consistent gains and two touchdowns; his running attack completely baffled the opposition. Bunnell intercepted some long passes with inimitable ease. Helmer's punting gained many yards.

And so the season ended and the 1933 Varsity became a thing of the past, not to be forgotten, but to be recalled as long as Mansfield's athletic tradition is perpetuated. To the graduating gladiators, Adieu and God-speed! To those who tarry a bit longer, Au Revoir!

Basketball

Some of Mansfield's basketball fans will recall the ill-omened season of 1934 with much wailing and gnashing of teeth, for a contemplation of a series of defeats is a most melancholy preoccupation; others will remember it in the light of its true significance and implication, as a living embodiment of collegian youth and spirit.

The advent of the basketball season was greeted by a sizeable squad of promising candidates. The Varsity was formed, with five former Varsity and the Junior Varsity men as a nucleus, and Mansfield regarded her schedule with high aspirations. But things did not go as anticipated; the Red and Black Varsity lost its first game and, with the exception of a tilt with the Alumni, continued in the losing stride for the balance of the season. The boys entered each game determined to win; they gave the best that was in them to give; they were not disheartened by defeat; but they lost, consistently and emphatically. Let us turn our attention to the chronicle.

Bradford Levins 40; Mansfield 26

The season opened inauspiciously in a struggle with an independent team from Bradford, whose brand of basketball, smacking of years of concerted playing, was baffling to Mansfield's Varsity. Despite promising opposition, the Levins had little trouble in holding the lead throughout a speedy contest.

Wood

Lock Haven 44; Mansfield 18

The results of Mansfield's first game away were disappointing to loyal fans. The game was close during the first half, the mid-score being 22 to 16, with Mansfield on the short end. Lock Haven forged ahead during the second half, scoring 22 points to Mansfield's 2.

Mansfield Varsity 46; Mansfield Alumni 9

This was the most impressive victory a Mansfield Varsity has won over an Alumni team in recent years. The Varsity played excellent basketball throughout the contest, guarding closely and forfeiting but a single field goal. Borden and Rose were conspicuous. Alumni basketeers were Gamble, Maynard, Baynes, Lutes, Marsh, Kelly, Bennett, Allis and Besanceney.

Bloomsburg 56; Mansfield 27

In alien territory for the second time, Mansfield again ran into difficulties. Always a hard team to beat on its own court, Bloom was particularly difficult to stop this year. The half ended with Bloom leading, 31-8. The second period was played on even terms; but Bloom's comfortable lead was not to be overcome. Borden, scoring 14 points, was outstanding.

Borden

Lock Haven 32; Mansfield 23

Having lost to Lock Haven on her own hardwood earlier in the season, Mansfield put up a stubborn fight in the return game on the home court. The first half was hotly contested, the tally being 16 all at its close. During the second half, Mansfield was handicapped by the loss of Rose and Sinclair through personal fouls and added but 8 to Lock Haven's 17 points.

W. Stroughn

Dickinson 36; Mansfield 31

With the renewal of hostilities with Dickinson at Williamsport, it looked very much as though Mansfield were going to break into the win column; but the Red and Black Varsity was nosed out at the finish. It is interesting to note that Mansfield scored the same number of points as in the contest of the year preceeding, while Dickinson scored 4 less. Edwards justified himself with 6 two-pointers.

Edwards

Cortland 33; Mansfield 14

Cortland opposed Mansfield in the seventh game of the season. The visitors always are a strong team and this year scored easily, piling 21 points on Mansfield's 6 at the half. Though exhibiting excellent form in this contest, the Mountaineers could not overcome the prowess of the Physical Ed'ers.

Sinclair

Kutztown 31; Mansfield 26

Mansfield invaded Berks County to tangle with her newest basketball rival—Kutztown. The game was nip and tuck from beginning to end. The score at the half was 16-12, with Kutztown in the lead. Close guarding enabled her to maintain this lead during the second period. Borden, Rose and Edwards led in the scoring for Mansfield.

Stroudsburg 66; Mansfield 23

Fatigued by the encounter with Kutztown on the day preceding, Mansfield bowed to the relentless onslaught of Stroud. The half ended 23-10 in the latter's favor. Mansfield put up a stubborn fight, but was unable to stop her opponents, who scored 43 points in the second half.

Millersville 39; Mansfield 36

Back in her own back yard after a disastrous road trip, Mansfield was determined to break into the win column. She led the visitors at half time, 13-7; but, during the second period, Borden was railroaded via the personal foul route, hurting her chances considerably. Trailing with but seconds to play, Zavacky sank a field goal to tie the score at 34 all. In the extra period, Mansfield scored a field goal, while Millersville put the game on ice by sinking 2 field goals and a free throw.

Klein

Bloomsburg 41; Mansfield 27

Not content with one crushing victory over Mansfield, Bloom travelled ninety miles to "rub it in". The score at the half was 21-8, with Bloom ahead. Mansfield came back with plenty of life to score on even terms; but the visitors' lead was not to be denied.

Rose

Dickinson 41; Mansfield 29

In the return game with Dickinson, Mansfield made a last attempt to place a victory to her credit. During the first half it looked as though that attempt might be successful; Mansfield played heads-up basketball. But the half ended with Dickinson tossing a field goal for a two point lead and, during the final period, Mansfield was completely outplayed, scoring but 9 to the visitors' 19 points.

Doud

Thus ended a season of unrequited effort and futile hopes. But another season looms ahead and with it the prospect of retaliation; for the 1934 Varsity was composed of Juniors, Sophomores and Freshmen, who, as a result of this year's training should go forth next year with a vengeance.

The Wrestling Team made a significant contribution to Mansfield's athletic life this year. With three victories and one tie against two defeats, the team is deserving of praise, inasmuch as both defeats came at the hands of Physical Education colleges. The meet ending in a draw was with the Elmira, N. Y., Y. M. C. A., members of which team were two men who had advanced to the finals in the national Olympic tryouts.

There were no stars this year. With the exception of Pugano, every man was defeated and every man won. Pugano wrestled in the last three meets and threw his man on each occasion. Lunn earned the greatest number of points with four falls and one decision. Captain Lent captured second scoring honors with three falls and one decision. Warren and Paris each had fifteen points to his credit. Ewonishon and Fenner each had a fall and a decision to his credit. Close took one fall and one decision. Whitney was the "goat" of the team; in the six meets, he faced three coaches and one captain. In the meet with the Penn State Frosh, he wrestled one of their outstanding grapplers; at Ithaca, he faced a man of superior prowess. The fact that Whitney won three bouts and lost three is indicative of genuine wrestling ability.

Next year's team should be as fine as Mansfield can produce. Paris and Warren will be the only men lost through graduation. There are a number of husky candidates eager to fill their shoes, as well as to wrest Varsity positions from their present incumbents. Notable among these are Aylesworth, Ewonishon, Fiester, Lennox, Merrick and Tanner. All power to them!

Baseball

Since any discussion of the 1934 baseball season would be in the nature of a forecast at this time, a resume of the 1933 season is offered in its place. Only five of the eight scheduled games were played, three being cancelled because of stormy weather.

The Varsity was pitted against a strong Alumni team in the first game. Scoring one run in the first and two in the second half of the first inning, the Alumni gained the lead; but it was not held long, for the Varsity came back to score three in the second and seven in the third, completing the scoring by three in the sixth. The "All Stars" scored seven in the eighth. D. Bartoo, Bunnell and Orr kept the opponents' hits scattered. The score, Varsity 13, Alumni 10. Alumni participating were Brace, Carpenter, Dunbar, Hartman, Hyrcenko, Fish, Roderick, Sorber, Summers, Sunday and Yalch.

The second game was with the Mansfield Athletic Association. The Teachers started off with two runs in the first. The game was loosely played, with frequent errors. The score, Varsity 11, Athletic Association 4.

Mansfield encountered the Blossburg Athletic Association in the third contest. After retiring the first three Bloss men to face Orr's slants, Mansfield started a hitting spree which did not end until ten consecutive runs had crossed the plate. Orr allowed but two hits, both of which came in the sixth and thus enabled them to score their single run. Kolcharno and Williams wielded mean sticks throughout the fray. The score, Mansfield 14, Blossburg 1.

The fourth game was Mansfield's initial encounter with Hartwick, her newest rival in sports. Rain made the game somewhat erratic. Hartwick led with a hit in the first. Mansfield retaliated by scoring two runs. Hartwick scored three in the third and two in the fifth, while Mansfield scored in every¹ inning which followed, except the fifth. Bartoo hurled a nice ball; Brockway and Pope did some convincing hitting. The score, Mansfield 16, Hartwick 5.

Alumni Day brought Cortland, traditional Alumni Day rival. The clubs were well matched and each scored one run in the second and fourth innings. Mansfield broke the deadlock in the seventh on a single by Brockway, a double by Scarcello, a base on balls by Williams and a two-base hit by Kolcharno. These accounted for two runs. In the eighth inning, Bunnell brought the crowd to its feet with the most spectacular play of the season. With two down and two men on, Bergstrom, Cortland's left fielder, connected for a drive along the first base line. Bunnell, running at top speed, threw himself at the ball and snared it with one hand. The play ended the tying run; there was no more scoring. The score, Mansfield 4, Cortland 2.

Last year men who are eligible for the 1934 squad are D. Bartoo, G. Bartoo, Bagaczyk, Brockway, Bunnell, Klein, Pope, Stevenson and Warren. It is anticipated that these men, together with some promising newcomers, will make up another winning team. The schedule will include games with Alumni, Bloomsburg, Cortland, Dickinson, Hartwick, Lock Haven and Stroudsburg.

Tennis

The Varsity Tennis Squad, in completing its season undefeated and untied, brought the 1933 athletic program to a sensational close. It was the first Mansfield athletic team to establish such a record since 1929.

The team was composed of Robert Alger, Daniel Davis, John Maynard, Adrian Rowe, Robert Straughn and William Straughn, Jr. All, with the exception of Rowe, will be eligible for the 1934 season, so that another invincible team can be expected.

The first match of the season was with Alfred University, which, though formidable, was no match for the Mansfield racquet men. Alger, Davis, Maynard and Rowe won their singles matches. The doubles were a clean sweep for the Mountaineers, with the combinations of Straughn and Straughn, Alger and Maynard and Davis and Rowe taking their matches in fine style. The final score, Mansfield 7, Alfred 2.

With one victory tucked safely under its belt, Mansfield went forth to do battle with her traditional enemy, Bloomsburg. This match was expected to reveal the true strength of the Red and Black team, but Bloomsburg did not have sufficient power to test it. Alger, Davis, Maynard and R. Straughn won their singles matches; Rowe and W. Straughn, Jr., lost theirs. The doubles matches were closely contested; Mansfield worked hard for her victory. The final score, Mansfield 7, Bloomsburg 2.

Stroudsburg blew into town, determined to erase Mansfield's records from the books; she found Mansfield equally determined that she should not. This was the first close match of the year. Each match had deuced scores and was in doubt until the last ball sailed over the net. Davis, Rowe, R. Straughn and W. Straughn, Jr., won their matches, thus assuring Mansfield of victory. Alger and Maynard went down to their initial defeat. Only one doubles match was played because of time. The final score, Mansfield 5, Stroudsburg 3.

The Mountaineers next invaded the stronghold of Alfred, in a return match. It rained during the morning, so that it was planned to play the match in Alfred's spacious gymnasium; however, the sun came to the rescue in the afternoon, putting the courts in shape and making it possible to play the match out of doors. Alger, Maynard, Rowe and W. Straughn, Jr., gave Mansfield a commanding lead in the singles; the doubles combinations were victorious. The final score, Mansfield 7, Alfred 2.

Mansfield brought the season to a close with a startling victory over the Williamsport Tennis Club, a professional organization of commendable prowess. Alger, Davis, Maynard, Rowe and W. Straughn, Jr., were victorious in the singles; Straughn and Straughn were defeated in the doubles. The final score, Mansfield 6, Williamsport 3.

Two matches with Cortland and one with Bloomsburg were cancelled because of inclement weather.

Much credit is due Coach Edward Cornish for his indefatigable efforts in developing a team of such calibre. Here's hoping that he is as successful this year!

Intramural

Intramural Athletics

Intramural athletics were created several years ago in an effort to afford every Mansfield man the opportunity to engage in his favorite sport. They were planned originally to include a variety of sports, that individual tastes might be gratified; but, to date, basketball is the only sport utilized. The interest and enthusiasm shown by the student body at basketball games would indicate that the intramural program might be extended successfully to include other sports.

Under the direction of Matthew Salisbury, a schedule of eighteen basketball games was played this year. George Bunnell coached the Seniors; William Straughn, Jr., the Juniors; James Klein, the Sophomores; and Michael Borden, the Freshmen. The initial games were played immediately following Christmas vacation. The Seniors assumed the lead by winning their first three games. The Juniors and Freshmen were close behind, but the Sophomores apparently were unable to hit their stride. Semester examinations necessitated a two-week suspension of activities. At the end of that time, hostilities were resumed. Competition was keen and interest ran high, perhaps even higher than in the Varsity contests. A capacity crowd always was on hand to cheer its favorite team.

At the time of writing, the Seniors are heading the league. The Freshmen, after a slow start, have begun to win consistently and are giving the Seniors a battle for first place. The Sophomores are making a better showing than in their first games. The Juniors, strong in other years, are trailing the league.

The intramural basketball games were capably handled by George Bunnell, James Klein and Dallas Stevenson.

Girls' Athletics

Girls' Athletics

Athletics at Mansfield are not limited to boys. From the time that the school term begins in the fall until the time that it ends in the spring, girls, athletically inclined, engage in sports of one sort or another.

Hockey attracts immediate attention in the fall and many lively inter-class games are waged in Smythe Park during the season. The initial contests take place in hot September; the final encounters in wintry November. Thanksgiving marks the end of the hockey season.

The girls next turn their attention to basketball. The call for participants is answered usually by approximately sixty aspirants for places on the several class teams. With so large a number from which to choose, the organization of excellent squads is inevitable, as is resultant interest and enthusiasm.

With the advent of spring, basketball gives way to baseball, which is played until the end of the school year. Again class teams are organized and again interest and enthusiasm run high.

Incidental all-season athletic activities for girls include tennis, bowling, swimming.

Regardless of the rivalry that always exists during class games, good "sportswomanship" has characterized every girls' athletic activity. It is to perpetuate this spirit that the Girls Athletic Club annually awards the Sportsmanship Brotherhood Recognition Pin to those girls who, in its judgment, have best exemplified this admirable attitude.

The Carontawan

The 1934 Carontawan, though it differs in treatment from the preceding sixteen volumes, conforms with them in the purpose of its publication. It is dedicated to the reflection of student life. To this end, its conception has been fraught with thoughtful effort.

It is true that the 1934 Carontawan is modern in spirit. Though agreeably informal, it is dignified and emphatic. Also, it is true that, it being the persuasion of the staff that words are connotative, rather than denotative of human experience and that the excessive use of them defeats, rather than fosters their purpose, the book has been made largely pictorial; that, in order that such representation may be artistic, yet definite, photography has been employed; and that, in details of make-up, printing, binding and embellishment, contemporary design has been utilized. Still the purpose for which the volume was created has not been forgotten nor has the present staff neglected to pay tribute to those who have executed that purpose previously. It is this attitude which should assure a sympathetic response to our efforts.

The Flashlight

The Flashlight touches college life at more points perhaps than does any other campus publication. It encourages the members of its staff to develop perceptions of editorial excellence and attitudes of journalistic discrimination and affords an opportunity for the application and perpetuation of such perceptions and attitudes.

The present staff had as its nucleus a group of practiced students, which was augmented by a number of recruits, all of whom ranked high in literary and journalistic ability. The experience of the older members, together with the enthusiasm of the newer ones, has brought fundamental and lasting returns.

This year, the number of issues was necessarily decreased as a result of limited funds. However, the staff met this handicap by raising the standards of the paper.

An ambitious editor, a worthy sponsor and a capable staff, bolstered by the interest and cooperation of faculty and student body alike, have produced a most acceptable edition of the Flashlight for the 1933-34 school year.

The Cadence

Since its initial appearance in 1929, the Cadence, published quarterly by the Music Education Department, has developed into an organ of worthy acclaim. Music clubs of Pennsylvania have praised it highly; music magazines of repute have recognized it significantly.

Featured in the Cadence are articles of lasting interest by authorities in the field of public school music; many of the Nation's most prominent musical figures are numbered among its contributors. Additional columns are devoted to news of the Department, to reviews and criticisms and to alumnus and exchange information. The outstanding issue of the year, "The Teacher Placement Number", is of inestimable value as a means of introducing each graduate of the Department to the school superintendents of the Commonwealth. This annual edition carries an outline of the music curriculum, together with a picture of each senior and a complete record of his college activities.

The Teacher Placement Bulletin

The Teacher-Placement Bulletin was issued for the first time five years ago. It elicited such favorable comment among those to whom it was distributed that it has become an annual publication. Its object, as the name implies, is to aid in the placement of graduates. Its columns supply accurate, concise data concerning each Senior in Secondary Education. It is circulated among school men and school directors. It is believed that Mansfield has the distinction of publishing the first bulletin of this nature.

The Student Government Handbook

The Student Government Handbook, as it exists, is a compilation of information about the college, its classroom and extra-curricular opportunities and its social regulations. The latter, designed to further the ideals of the teaching profession and shaped by the experiences of those who have been students at Mansfield in the past, are emphasized especially in an effort to reduce administrative responsibility to the minimum. The Men's and Women's Councils publish this book yearly. It is dedicated primarily to the Freshmen, that they may become acquainted more speedily with the life of the institution.

The fraternity has projected itself admirably during the year just past. A twenty-five piece concert orchestra has made public the purposes of its promotion; soloists and groups, instrumental and vocal, have dignified the affiliation to which they owe their allegiance. An interesting project has been the conducting course, in which moving pictures of various members in the role of conductor have aided in the criticism, analysis and improvement of conducting technique.

Y. M. C. A.

The Y. M. C. A. attempts to develop young men spiritually, morally and socially. Inspiring programs, consisting of special music and current discussions, are conducted weekly to maintain the standards of this organization. In addition to these meetings, such activities as the annual dance, musical revues and parties find a fitting place.

The "Y" Hut, set apart from the main buildings, serves as an informal gathering place for members. Here one may read, listen to or provide music, play games or shoot pool.

This organization is directed by a cabinet, elected by the students. Members of the faculty act in advisory and inspirational capacities. The final purpose of the "Y" is to promote the best in the lives of its members.

The Y. M. C. A. Gospel Team is an organization composed of men who have established an enviable reputation for willingness to aid in Christian work at all times. This year, the chairman, Robert Alger, planned a very definite program which was carried out by the nucleus of last year's team—Kintner, Johnson, Reynolds, Birriolo, Gingrich, Alger and Bryden—assisted by several new members, including Davis, Barrett and Kline.

The Art Club

“Though we travel the world over to find the beautiful, we must carry it with us, or we find it not.”—Emerson.

The Art Club, organized in 1923, is an honorary society for those who attain an “A” in one semester of Art. The same spirit which inspired the charter members motivates the present group. Its desire is to increase the significance of the Fine Arts, through the study and production of artistic things, and to share their joys with others.

This year the formal meetings have centered around the theme, “Beauty Spots of America.” Work meetings have permitted the development of personal initiative.

Along with its other activities, the club sponsors an Art Week; also, a hand-weaving exhibit from Berea and a soap sculpture exhibit.

The club plans each year to leave something of beauty and use to the college. This year provision has been made for a museum on sixth floor, as well as a contribution toward the rust curtains for the auditorium.

The Dramatic Club

The members of the Dramatic Club aim to incite a keener interest in dramatics and to arouse a true appreciation of the drama and the art of acting. Consequently, its meetings are devoted to study and practice, accompanied by good fellowship, fun and refreshments.

The annual three-act play presented by members of the club this year was "The Charm School", a bubbling comedy concerned with complicating situations at a school for girls. The year's program also included lectures and experiments in stage craft, such as make-up and play coaching, and individual displays of talent before the members of the society.

Dramatic aspirants gain admittance to the organization by try-outs. These take place at the first meeting of the year, and those on the club roll vote for those students whose skill merits membership.

Safford, Rubendall, James, Price, Jones, Chaffee, Krick.

Suitability of vehicle, consistency of personification, appeal of interpretation and ambitiousness of mounting characterized "The Charm School", which was chosen as the year's initial offering of the Dramatic Club. The performance of this three-act comedy, scenes from which appear on this page, was one to elicit praise from discriminating critics.

"M" Club

The "M" Club is composed of men who have earned a varsity letter in any of the major sports. The fact that the members are so selected distinguishes the club as one of the most exclusive organizations on the campus.

This year the "M" Club made many worthwhile contributions to student life. Outstanding among these were: the publication of a special program to help make Parent's Day more enjoyable; the annual open dance, which proved to be a decided success; and finally, the closed formal dance, held in the spring.

The purposes of the "M" Club are to encourage clean sportsmanship and fair play and to stimulate interest in athletics, thus promoting school spirit. The club has tried to fulfill these ideals to the utmost extent and feels that its efforts have been recognized by the student body.

Girls' Athletic Club

All women interested in athletics, whether or not they care to participate in sports, find the Girls' Athletic Club a social pleasure. Its meetings are agreeable discussions of health, games and sportsmanship.

The Athletic Club is purposely to give women aid in working with groups and to recognize fair play, cooperation and high standards. It promotes physical recreation and offers to its members a means of out-of-the-classroom competition. Every year numerals are presented to women having participated in one and one-half games. One hundred points entitles the woman to her "M". In addition, the club has established a fund to buy tennis rackets, tennis balls, sleds and similar athletic equipment.

Emersonian Society

Emersonian! There is magic and meaning in the word that connotes insatiable hunger for wisdom and truth. A deep appreciation of nature, a profound love of poetry, a philosophical attitude toward life, a sincere religious conviction and a firm faith in themselves lead them in a determined concerted effort to be "self reliant." These were the chief virtues of their namesake and Godfather toward which they, as Emersonians, are striving.

The personnel of the group consists of students chosen from the Sophomore and Junior classes. In all-too-brief meetings, they have experimented with radical, yet educationally-approved procedures with marked success. They believe they have achieved much in developing moulding and harmonizing themselves, both as individuals and as vital parts of society.

Back Row: Maines, Squires, Hewitt, Learn, Moleski, Jenkins, James, Garrison, French.
Second Row: Reed, H. Bennett, Young, Kleese, Cornish, G. Bennett, Lloyd, Urban, Fleming.
Front Row: Davies, Snyder, Swan, Walsh, Warren, Major, Sanial, Frank, Chamberlain, McGinnis.

The Rurban Club

The fundamental aim of the Rurban Club is to promote the general welfare of rural and urban schools. It accomplishes this aim by a study of agricultural problems and the sociology of the rural community. The club tries to assist former members who are now teaching.

The Rurban Club fosters many enjoyable activities. Among them are frequent social evenings, a picnic, the Rurban Club play and an open dance for the whole school.

Back Row: Ashkar, Kahley, Horn, Abbot, Trumbetas, Brown, Cummings, Hess.
Second Row: Freligh, Squier, Birriolo, Wolpert, Beck, Williams, Kehm, Dudra.

The Latin Club

"Viresque acquirit eundo."

The first aim of the Latin Club is to promote interest in the classics among its own members, as well as among those whose major fields lie in other directions. Various programs and other club activities stress the lasting values which past civilizations have handed down to the present day.

The second aim of the Latin Club is to increase efficiency in the teaching of Latin. To bring this about, the members have tried to acquaint themselves with the most modern methods of teaching a subject that is still alive in the political, social and religious world of today.

Le Cercle Francais

“Silence’ s’il vous plait. La séance est ouverte!” Again the French Club goes into action. Since two years of French in high school or its equivalent are the qualifications for membership in this group, the club is compact in interests and aims.

Necessary details of business are abbreviated as much as possible and the real life of the organization goes into the programs, which possess educational and cultural value, as well as provide entertainment.

The French Club aims to further the purposes of its members; it has not attempted to interest the entire student body in its affairs. The organization has helped many students to develop a keener appreciation of the culture and ideals represented by the French language and French literature. As long as the club continues this good work, it will serve the students well.

Das Vereinlein

“Sprechen Sie Deutsch?” Are you interested in Germany; her language, her literature, her music, her science, her politics? These are the interests of “Das Vereinlein.”

This progressive club, for which a single semester of German makes one eligible, holds monthly meetings, each of which provides an opportunity to “brush up” in the language. Frequently, the program includes a guest speaker, who arouses new interest in some phase of German life. At these meetings there is always a pleasant social atmosphere.

The organization contributes much to school life. Das Vereinlein has a small loan fund available to any worthy student. The club provides special features for the school during the annual German week: German music in chapel; German exhibits in the library; and best of all, fascinating German lectures by Dr. Koischwitz of Columbia University.

Second Row: Reynolds, Saniel, Sharpe, Harrison, Hunt, Hildebrandt, DeMott,

Waiters' Force

"As a man eats so he works."

High among the campus organizations stands the trained force of waiters and waitresses. The service of this group plays no minor role in the welfare of the dormitory students. "Wait" is a hard word for the hungry. However, the flashes of white coats and aprons back and forth across the dining hall indicate that the word "wait" at Mansfield is a very easy one.

Anyone who has witnessed a waiters' meeting—and they meet three times a day—will realize the fellowship existing among them. There is also an opportunity for the development of personal qualities; for, of course, a waiter must be cooperative, must have a sense of fair play, must be patient and must be willing to serve others. These make up the ethical code of a waiter.
